SMALL WIRELESS FACILITY

Small Cell facilities are part of the wireless communication network and typically feature equipment and antennas that are smaller and more densely sited than traditional wireless communication facilities (i.e. cell towers). Small cell facilities must be less than 50 feet tall and are typically “shrouded” or enclosed to minimize visual appearance. Small cell facilities may be located on either existing or new utility poles, including light poles. Small cell facilities are approved administratively with public notification. Installation of a small cell facility may also require additional permit approvals, including but not limited to a right-of-way use permit and electrical permit.

REVIEW PROCESS – TYPE II LAND USE REVIEW

Type II reviews are based on clear, objective, and nondiscretionary standards or standards that require the application of professional expertise on technical issues. Type II reviews require a letter of complete application, public notification of application, and the decision is made by the Code Official. Type II reviews do not require a pre-application meeting, notice of application mailing and posting, public comment period, public hearing, or notice of decision.
